

Course Plan

1. Decision

2. General information

The course consists of 7.5 hp credits at the first level and will be conducted in English.

3. Course Code

4. Description

Globalization is profoundly changing the structure and meaning of our social lives. One central question under investigation is the extent to which globalization has brought about global equality and the degree to which it has led to global inequality and increased polarization. This course for first-level students is intended to examine how globalization is changing key areas of social life. First, we will examine the concept of globalization, comparing and assessing major theoretical approaches. Second, we will investigate how globalization has had a major impact on various forms of social organization. We will focus on the following topics: What is Globalization; Global Economy; Global Economic Inequality; Globalization and the IT Revolution; Globalization and Cultural Convergence or Glocalization? ; Global Cities; Globalization and Democratic Movements; Transnational Governance and/or Re-nationalization; Global Citizenship; and Global Mobility.

5. Intended Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:

- Identify and describe basic concepts of globalization
- Compare, synthesize and evaluate different theoretical approaches to globalization
- Assess the impact of globalization on key areas of social life

6. Required Literature

Globalization: A basic text, 2nd edition, by George Ritzer and Paul Dean, Wiley, 2015.

ISBN: 978-1-118-68712-3

7. Teaching & Learning Activities

The course is provided at full time basis for 5 weeks. Teaching is conducted through lectures, seminar meetings, and student-centered activities. Students are expected to do the following:

- Complete assigned reading before each class meeting;
- Participate actively in class discussion;
- Engage in pair or group work when assigned;
- Complete a group project in seminar;
- Complete a final essay;

8. Assessment

Assessment is based on how well students accomplish the Intended Learning Outcomes (outlined above), and how well students complete the group project and final essay.

The Group Project will be conducted through the seminars. Seminar attendance is required. Students will work together in small groups to carry out independent research on a specific topic on globalization and prepare a short presentation at the end of the term.

The Final Essay will be conducted as individual work and will focus the student's choice of topic on globalization. The final essay can be written on a similar topic as the group project.

The Final Grade will be based on

Attendance	10
Group Project and Presentation	30
Final Essay	60

Course Work is evaluated according to the following standard reference criteria:

A= This grade is earned when the student demonstrates his/her ability to identify, explain, and assess the impact of globalization on seven specific areas of social life with a high level of accurate detail and thoughtfulness. The student can readily make connections between globalization and complex social factors, engaging in a high level of relational thinking. The student can compare, contrast, and critically evaluate varying theoretical approaches to globalization.

B= This grade is earned when the student demonstrates his/her ability to identify, explain, and assess the impact of globalization on five to six specific areas of social life with a high level of accurate detail. The student can make basic level make connections between globalization and complex social factors, but does not engage in the highest level of relational thinking. The student can compare, contrast, and critically evaluate varying theoretical approaches to globalization.

C= This grade is earned when the student demonstrates his/her ability to identify, explain, and assess the impact of globalization on four specific areas of social life with accurate detail. The student can make basic level connections between globalization and complex social factors, but does not engage in the highest level of relational thinking. The student can compare and contrast theoretical approaches to globalization and shows some basic ability to critically evaluate social theory.

D= This grade is earned when the student demonstrates his/her ability to identify the impact of globalization on two specific areas of social life with some detail but has difficulty explaining and assessing the impacts of globalization on social life. The student has difficulty or inability to make connections between globalization and complex social factors. The student can identify different theoretical approaches to globalization but has difficulty making critical evaluations of social theory.

E= This grade is earned when the student cannot accurately identify, explain or assess the impact of globalization on any specific areas of social life. The student has difficulty or inability to make connections between globalization and complex social factors. The student can identify some of the theoretical approaches to globalization but cannot accurately compare and contrast them, indicating a weak understanding of key differences. The student has difficulty making critical evaluations of social theory.

Fx= This grade is earned when the student provides an unfocused or only partly relevant explanation of globalization and its impact on social life. The student does not make relevant connections between globalization and complex social factors, showing an inability to develop relational analysis. The student can identify some of the theoretical approaches to globalization but cannot accurately compare and contrast them, indicating a weak understanding of key differences. The student cannot make any critical evaluation of social theory.

F= This grade is earned when the student provides an unfocused and/or irrelevant explanation of globalization and its impact on social life. The student does not make relevant connections between globalization and complex social factors, indicating an inability to develop relational analysis. The student cannot identify any of the different theoretical approaches to globalization, indicating a weak understanding of key differences. The student cannot make any critical evaluation of social theory.

Note: E grade is needed to pass the course. A student with E grade is not entitled to redo course work to raise his/her grade. Students who receive Fx or F on course work twice from the same instructor can request to be evaluated by another instructor. Such a request should be sent to the Director of Studies. Students can request to have course work according to this syllabus up to three semesters after it ceases to be valid. Such a request should be sent to the Director of Studies.

8. Schema

Day	Date	Time	Format	Topic	Location
Thursday	30 November	9-11	Lecture	What is Globalization?	C497
Friday	1 December	9-11	Lecture	Global Culture/ Glocalization	E497
Week 49			Independent Study	Review Topics for Group Projects
Monday	11 December	13-15	Lecture	IT Revolution	D289
Tuesday	12 December	14-16	Lecture	Global Economy/ Global Inequality	C497
Wednesday	13 December	9-11	Lecture	Global Mobility	E497
Thursday	14 December	13-15	Lecture	Negative Flows: Disease, War & Terrorism	E387
Friday	15 December	9-11 13-15	Seminar A Seminar B	Group Projects	E387 F355
Week 51			Independent Study	Work on Group Projects
Wednesday	3 January	9-11 13-15	Seminar A Seminar B	Group Projects	E355 E355
Tuesday	9 January	13-16		Group Projects Presentations	B413
Friday	12 January	Kl 17		Final Essays Due	Mondo/Student Expedition

Required Literature:

Globalization: A basic text, 2nd edition, by George Ritzer and Paul Dean, Wiley, 2015.

ISBN: 978-1-118-68712-3

9. Topics & Reading Assignments: Provisional

What is Globalization?

Chapter 1 Globalization

Chapter 2 Globalization

Chapter 3 Globalization & Related Processes

Global Culture/ Glocalization

Chapter 8 Culture Flows, Convergence/Divergence

Global Economy

Chapter 4 Neo-Liberalism

Chapter 6, Structuring the Global Economy

Chapter 7 Global Economic Flows

IT Revolution

Chapter 9 High Tech Global Flows

Global Inequality

Chapter 13 Patterns of Inequality

Chapter 14 Global Majority-Minority Relations

Global Mobility

Chapter 10 Global Flows of People

Negative Global Flows

Chapter 12 Environmental Flows

Chapter 13 Dangerous Imports, Diseases, Crime, Terrorism and War

Global Governance & Global Citizenship

Chapter 5 Global Political Structure and Processes